WORK EXPERIENCES

Orange
09/14 - 09/15
Pro. Contract
Paris

Web project manager

While preparing a Master's degree, I joined Orange as a Web project manager, a position that allowed me to take part in or take charge of various projects, from website reworkings to CMS user training. I really enjoyed being a translator of sorts between editorial and technical departments. Supervising 18 websites, regular contacts with the technical team was required for evolution demands and bug tracking.

SUMMARY

After five years working while studying, during which I took charge of technical as well a editorial tasks and projects, I am currently looking for a position where I would be able to pilot engaging projects, placing myself as an intermediary between entities expressing needs and the technical team charged of creating the tools and platforms satisfying them

Curious, rigourous and well organized, my goal is to make the best of my versatility.
